- Providing a comprehensive list of documents and information to be provided, providing templates where appropriate
- Reviewing and collating supporting documents
- Liaising with third parties where required to obtain additional evidence

- Preparing the relevant application forms, submitting these on your behalf and booking any necessary appointments

- Advising on the application submission options and procedure and advising on likely time frames
- Advising you on the outcome of the application and explaining your new immigration or nationality status, including information about how to remain compliant with your visa conditions and the eligibility criteria for extensions and indefinite leave to remain.

Disbursements

Disbursements (i.e. expenses), are costs related to your matter that are paid to third parties, such as application, court, experts and barristers fees etc. These expenses are never included in our fees. We require funds on account, in order to handle these expenses to ensure a smooth process. Counsel's fees vary according to the experience of the individual counsel.

Issues that will affect the duration and cost of your case include:

- The complexity of the legal issues involved
- The urgency of the matter
- The level of documentation available and any issues in obtaining these
- Where the application is being made and any particular additional services you wish to use
- Whether the application is an initial one, an extension or an application for indefinite leave to remain
- Whether there are any dependants and their personal circumstances
- The nature and number of any required supporting statements
- If we are required to liaise with third parties such as accountants or financial institutions
- If Counsel is required to provide written advice and/or to represent you as part of an appeal process
- The number of tribunal appearances required

How long will my matter take?

We can never guarantee how long the Home Office will take to process your application, but we can advise you of the likely time frames and will keep you updated as the matter progresses.
